*M*ANY THINGS GO INTO THE MAKING OF A YEARBOOK—THINGS LIKE TYPEWRITER RIBBON AND RUBBER CEMENT, AND THINGS LIKE WORRY AND THOUGHT AND TIME AND ENERGY. BUT THE MOST IMPORTANT THING IS INSPIRATION. THE 1941 CHERRY TREE HAS HAD AS ITS INSPIRATION THE STUDENT BODY OF AN URBAN AND MODERN UNIVERSITY, A STUDENT BODY WHICH NEEDS—AND HAS DEMANDED—A YEARBOOK IN KEEPING WITH THE TEMPO OF THEIR LIVES. WE HAVE ATTEMPTED TO ANSWER THEIR DEMANDS IN THIS BOOK, BUT WE HOPE THEY WILL REALIZE THAT IT IS BUT THE BEGINNING OF WHAT WE FEEL WILL BE A LONG LINE OF BETTER AND EVER MORE PROGRESSIVE BOOKS.

The rod of the old-time schoolmaster is broken forever, and a modern educator's ability is no longer judged by his skill with a ruler. Indeed to a university's faculty comes the privilege of developing a student's talents to the full and an opportunity to help him make the most of his possibilities for living a fuller and richer individual life. In this respect, the faculty of George Washington University has brought much credit and honor to the college. Handling, as they do, all types of students from that most curious phenomenon on the campus—the freshman—to the sage and venerable senior, they must display a vastness of innate understanding, sympathy, and knowledge of youth. These dispensers of wisdom serve in a multitude of other capacities—as personal advisers to the students, as faculty advisers to the many campus organizations, and as active and enthusiastic participants in University activities. Whether addressing a large group of students or engaging a few in conversation, the faculty has always shown its progressive attitude toward modern youth and in such treatment has avoided one of the great evils of present-day institutions—mass production.

Right, officials at the ground-breaking ceremonies for the new auditorium. Front row, left to right: Mr. Leon Tobriner, Mr. Robert V. Fleming, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, trustees; Mr. Charles Tompkins, builder; Mr. Joseph Toomey, superintendent of construction, and President Marvin.

Back row, Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, Mr. Slocum Kingsbury, architect; Secretary Harry C. Davis, of the Board of Trustees; Mr. Charles E. Merry, Business Manager of the University, and Mr. Waldron Faulkner, architect.

A collage of black and white photographs showing various architectural details of The George Washington University building. The images include: a close-up of a building corner with stone masonry; a large, multi-paned window reflecting the sky; a balcony with several people standing on it; a view of the building's facade with horizontal lines; and a scene with flags flying in front of the building. The collage is composed of several overlapping, torn-edge style photographs.

A vertical collage of four black and white photographs documenting a building fire. The top image shows a flag flying against a clear sky. The second image shows a bright fire burning in a window of a building. The third image shows a street view of a multi-story building with smoke rising from the windows. The bottom image shows the building's structure heavily damaged and covered in scaffolding.

A collage of six black and white photographs showing various views of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Administration Building. The images include interior shots of a large hall with columns and desks, exterior views of the building's facade with its prominent columns, and a vintage car parked on a snowy street in front of the building.

The other views which are shown here were taken by our staff photographers, as were the snaps and candid shots used throughout the book. Indeed the publication of the 1941 Cherry Tree would not have been possible without the fine cooperation of Bill Craver, Jim Gnam, Ward McCabe, Hugh McLaughlin, and Milton Mintz, who did so willingly everything we asked, from invading the upper regions of Strong Hall to hanging out of second-story windows.

According to a precedent set in 1939 the traditional speaker is replaced at the University's February Convocation by a guest artist. This year, at Constitution Hall, on February 22nd, the mid-year graduates heard the distinguished musician and world-famous violinist, Efrem Zimbalist.

At eight o'clock the academic procession entered the hall, led by Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, University Marshal, and with Dr. Marvin, the faculty, and graduates in line. Following the announcement of the convocation, Mr. Zimbalist played several selections. A short address to the graduates by President Marvin was the only speech of the 209th commemoration of George Washington's birthday, as more than three hundred students received degrees or certificates.

• BARRISTER'S

When first you entered law school there was registration
 Those long blue slips, the Nosy things, caused much consternation.
 To decide just what to take—that was a choice supreme:
 "The election's yours, but we advise"—well, you see what I mean.
 The books you bought were large, the same the drain economic
 The struggle to carry the bills and them was really patho-comic.
 You sat in class with pens all poised, strained with rapt attention,
 What you heard and what you learned—the percentage I won't mention.

That first year you studied, read and briefed each single case
 And dug and ground throughout the days to keep plugging in the race.

You started studying for exams the beginning of the year
 Read law reviews, and texts; outlined—trembling with fear.
 When those four-hour iniquities were through
 You were as limp as yesterday's spaghetti, true.
 But it had been fun to learn of crimes, contracts and torts.
 Chins up! About those marks—just be good sports.
 You're still in school at least and ticking off the laps
 Pretty blasé about it, too—you take less notes, more naps.
 It seems the same this year, and yet, you know so darn much more
 That you were unaware you knew and never used before.
 The Student Bar is much alive—throws a party pretty keen Sponsors lectures, gives a dance—really gets up steam.

BATTLE . . .

Then things get vital and you begin to THINK,
Naps are beside the question—you argue, test each link,
You become technical, belligerent in extreme,
You glower when the cases disagree, and when they don't you beam.
Those four-hour odes of woe besiege you as is their way;
Let your grades be up—so you can stay in school, you pray.
The white slips arrive after many weary, dreary months—
What's the score—are you genius or are you dunce?
Open the paper—be prepared for the blow,
You can always take accounting you know.
Wow! What's this—Oh, boy? Can it be?
Only a real master mind can make 75.3!
And so, ere long, the lengthy slips are again filled out
As you insert "Law Review," you want to shout and shout.
This year you puff frantically up those many steps,
Plumb your hard-won legal knowledge to its shallow depths,
Sit in the library, surrounded by books,
Talking with friends, collecting dirty looks.
You dig around in each dusty tome
And gripe and complain and wish you were home.
Until all at once you get a colossal idea.
That's the stuff! No one else ever got near!
So you work it all up and are proud of the thing,
The Prof just laughs—oh, where is death's sting?

So you start again—mad and stubborn,
Imagine your surprise when you find you were wrong.
Then there's moot court—full of tribulations and trials
To win, joke for the jury—lay them in the aisles.
More panting up those dog-goned stairs
Each one's going to give an elevator he swears.
A trial's a complicated thing,
Make yours good—make it swing.
... Then the docket spells out your name
And in you go to try for fame.
Your voice cracks, your throat is dry,
You hope they grade on how hard you try.
Then it's over and you lost—don't burn,
Next semester you'll win, that second turn.
The four-hour demons are old enemies now,
They're not quite as bad when you think you know how.
It's over! Your name appears on the board;
You're going to graduate—thank the Lord!
It's been hard, it's been work,
It's been anger and irk,
It's been laughter and fun,
Stimulation, exasperation—but now it's done.
You've earned the key to your career,
Use well and wisely, dear.

Recognized as one of the strongest teams in the South, the Colonials opened their Golden Jubilee of football against an underrated Mount St. Mary's ball club. The largest crowd ever to witness an opening game saw the Buff and Blue held to a scoreless tie in the first half, and then come back strong to score two touchdowns in the second half to win 12-0.

One week later the Colonials invaded New York, and beneath the brilliant lights of the Polo Grounds the Buff and Blue defense frustrated the razzle dazzle plays of the highly touted Manhattan ball club while their hard-driving backs scored three times to win 21-18.

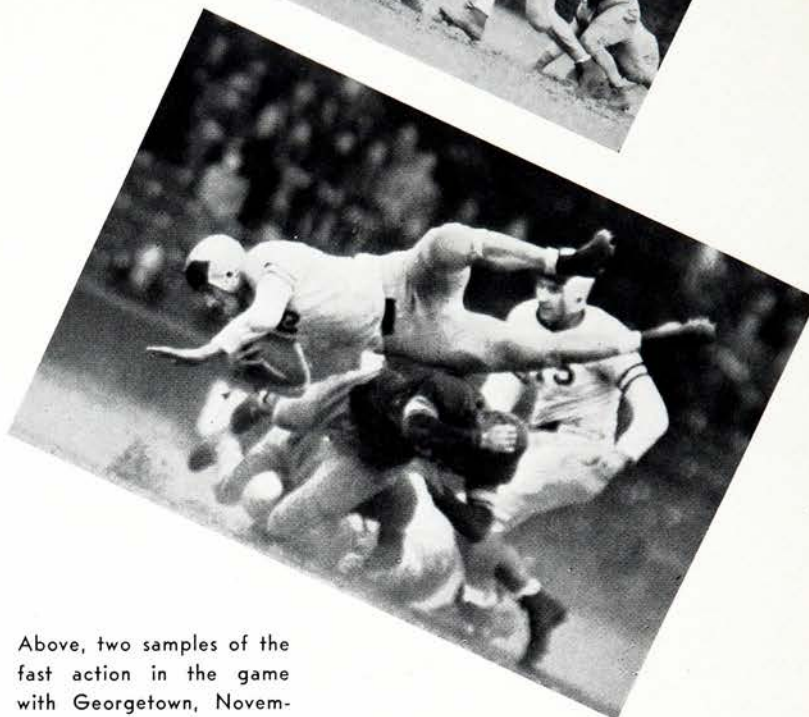

From the bright lights of Broadway the Colonials traveled into Dixieland and because of a siege of overconfidence they barely nosed out the Washington and Lee Generals in the closing seconds of a hectic ball game 20-14.

At this stage of the season injuries began to hamper the welfare of the squad. The next week-end saw a badly injured Colonial team in the bluegrass country where the Kentucky Wildcats overpowered them 24-0.

After this discouraging defeat the Colonials bounced back to an outstanding victory over West Virginia. Bill Kerr's mighty mountaineers went down to a 19-0 defeat at the hands of the Buff and Blue warriors. Then, after completely outplaying and outcharging the Bucknell Bisons, the Colonials were forced to accept a scoreless tie for their Homecoming game.

Victory came the next week, however, when the Colonials beat a strong Kansas ball club 6-0. In spite of this great showing against their intersectional rivals, the Colonials were definitely the underdogs as they prepared for the encounter with their strong District rivals, Georgetown. The Hoyas were acclaimed as one of the best teams in the country and were picked to defeat the Buff and Blue by at least four touchdowns. But on November 23, as dusk began to fall over Griffith Stadium, and the Hoya and Colonial warriors trudged back to their locker rooms, victory by a very slight margin was Georgetown's. The courageous Colonials had outfought and outplayed the Hoyas in every phase of the game, but Dame Fortune had favored Georgetown with victory 8-0.

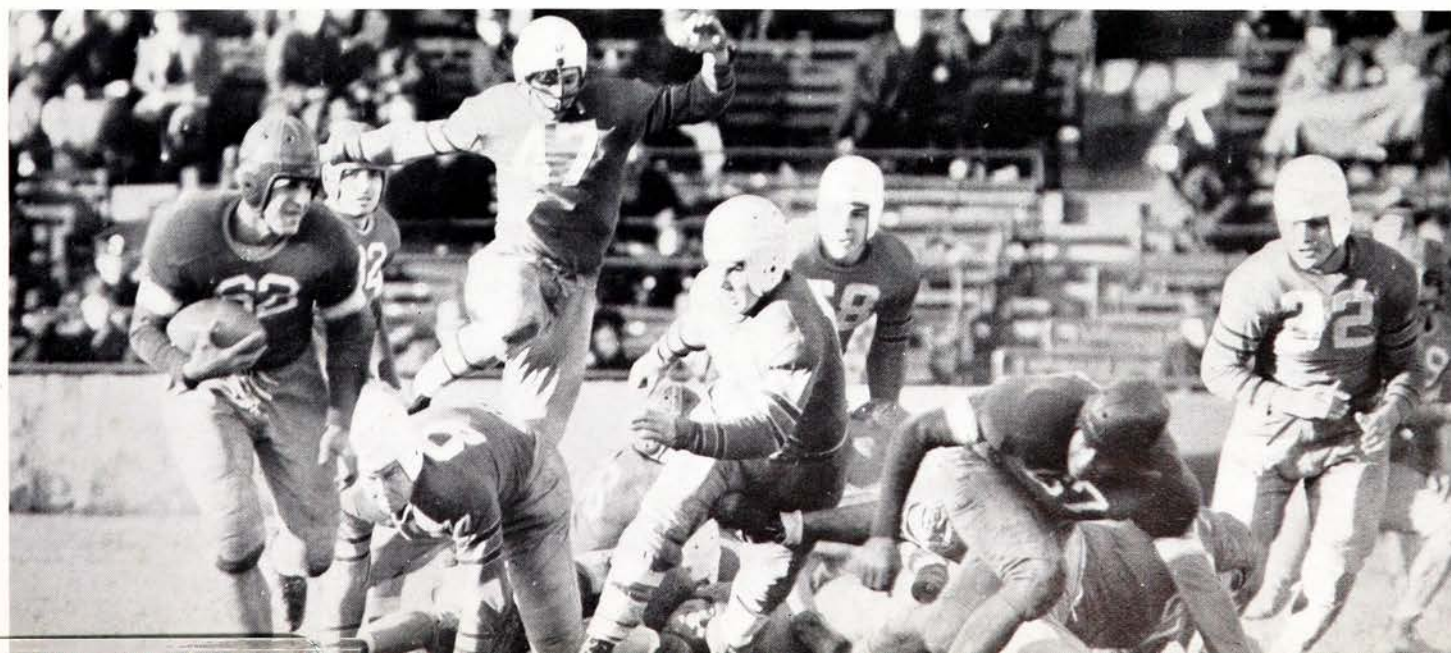

Thus ended a successful season for the Buff and Blue, and in the fall of '41 with a wealth of material, they will make their debut in the Southern Conference.

Above, two samples of the fast action in the game with Georgetown, November 23, 1940.

Below, Walt Fedora starting out on the 19-yard run for a touchdown that gave G. W. a 6-0 victory over Kansas, November 16, 1940.

Left, the Homecoming Sweetheart.
Below, scenes from the Homecoming Ball. Opposite, scenes from the football game, the tug-of-war, and the pre-game rally.

COMING

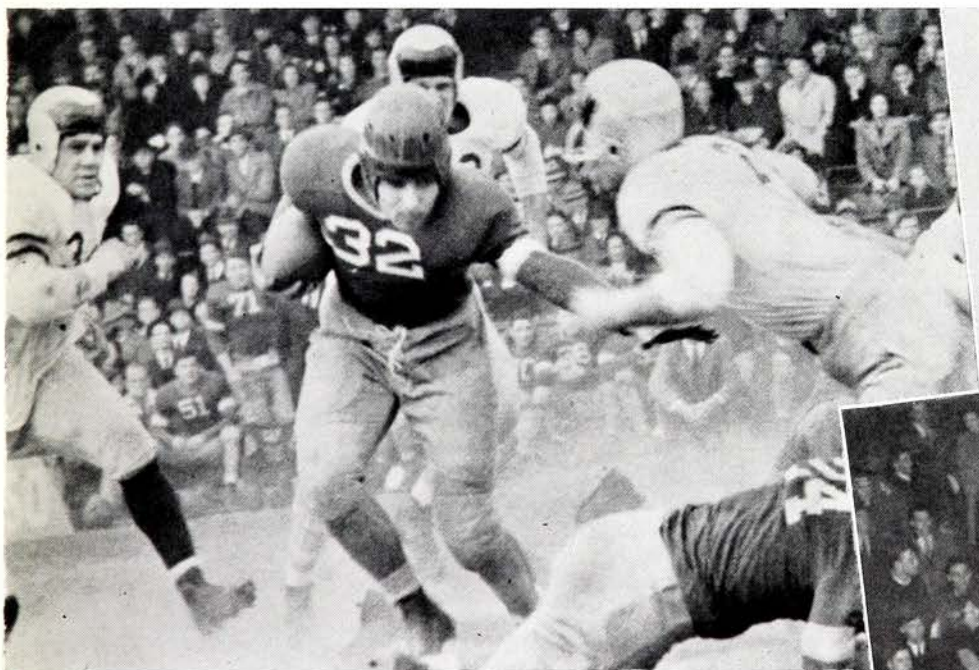

Around the end of fall, G. W. begins to acquire a festival atmosphere and abandons itself to the gaiety and bustle of Homecoming. Fraternities feverishly decorate their house fronts, riotous pep rallies are held, worried, harrassed committee members rush around, and the dimpled darlings of campus organizations are nominated with hopes and prayers for the cherished throne of the year's Homecoming Sweetheart.

Daily the competition of sororities grows fiercer and more determined as polls are set up in the Student Club and the Schools of Law and Medicine.

The 1940 Homecoming program included a tea held at Strong Hall for the nervous candidates and the beaming alumni who come into their own at Homecoming. An innovation was the torchlight parade down Constitution Avenue Friday night ending in a rally at the Washington Hotel. Then came the momentous day and the Homecoming game with thousands packed into Griffith Stadium, cheering on the Colonial eleven against Bucknell, laughing at the entertainment between the halves, applauding the award to the most outstanding alumnus. But, however feverish the excitement at the game may have been, it approached a near frenzy of suspense at the dazzling climax, the Homecoming Ball. Applause greeted each candidate as she and her escort strolled in a spotlight the length of the ballroom to the raised throne where Caroline Wadden, 1939's Sweetheart, presided, and the hush of hundreds was broken by the sight of red-headed Betty Stevenson and Mary Ellen Degnan smilingly accepting huge bouquets and second and third place honors. Then the spectators paid thunderous tribute as radiant Anne Thomas was crowned George Washington's 1940 Sweetheart.

The Homecoming celebration was brought to a close on Sunday with Mortar Board's breakfast for its alumni and the Riding Club's annual Horse Show.

SPEAKING OF FRATERNITIES

"Who in the hell got my tuxedo?"

Put twenty-five boys together in a house—a row house, an ex-embassy, a modern dwelling in Arlington—let them help finance it, repair it, paint, run the kitchen, hire the help; let them govern themselves, set their own moral standards, create their own conventions, keep their own codes of honor; let them fight, work, play, make love, hate and drink together—and you've got a fraternity.

Of course you may get communism too (as the familiar quotation at top indicates), not to speak of socialism, capitalism and anarchy. But, above all, you will get democracy.

No debate on the Senate floor was ever more bitter than a chapter meeting squabble over whether quiet hour should be 8 to 11 or 9 to 12; no king's coronation was ever more solemn than an awestruck freshman's formal initiation; no Byronic love scene ever more passionately done than a brother pinning his first girl.

At this University, where the boys hail from all parts of the country, where so many work and attend night classes, "the house" becomes a home, the "fraternal bonds" become deep as family ties. The local brothers, too, contribute much to fraternity life, to its society and leadership. But, it is in "the house" that the group is welded together, and character is molded.

Yes—it's a great life for the brothers, rough on the pledges, and fascinating to the girls (we hope). But it has its little disadvantages:

"Say—who DID 'borrow' my tux last?"

Pictures on these pages show scenes from interfraternity competition in athletics, a few shots of fraternity "parties," and pictures of the various houses showing that the fraternity house is not just a place where a bunch of boys eat and sleep.

FRATERNITIES

The annual Interfraternity Prom was held on April 4 in the new ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Fraternity men and girls who rated "bids" danced from nine 'till one to the music of Will Osborne's orchestra, and witnessed the Grand March led by Louise Mann and Harold Hudson, president of the Interfraternity Council, and Anne Blackistone and Bob Dearth, social chairman of the Council. Intermission was featured by the presentation of awards and tapping of outstanding fraternity men for Gate and Key.

SORORITY SNAPSHOTS

Only in a college or university is found that phenomenon of campus life—the sorority girl, full-fledged product of a modern educational society. But she was once a wide-eyed freshman, who, in the course of registration, was caught up in the breathtaking whirl of coke and luncheon dates and rush parties of every variety, and became the center of competition and overwhelming attention of those in the bonds. For many of these girls, the happiest moment comes when she receives her formal bid and is pledged. On that day the campus blooms with varied corsages and shines with newly acquired pledge pins and smiling faces. But a pledge's life is not all flowers and flattery; she has grades to make, lessons to learn, and duties to perform. As a representative of her sorority she participates in many activities, anxious to bring home fame and glory. When she has proven herself scholastically and individually worthy, the lowly pledge emerges an initiated sorority member, versed in campus lore, wise in the ways of college life, proud of her badge, and especially schooled in the intricate subtleties of rushing.

Below, the crowd at the Junior Pan-Hellenic Prom, and an informal glimpse of sorority girls deep in a game of bridge in the "rooms," complete with kibitzers. Left, Marjorie Wilkins receives the Cherry Blossom cup for Delta Zeta—one of the many awards for which sororities compete annually. On opposite page, scenes from the Intersorority Goat Show, showing skits of the Chi Omega pledges and the Kappa Kappa Gamma pledges and the presentation of the cup for first place to Connie Hartman, head of the Kappa Delta pledges. Lower right opposite, Alpha Delta Pi fishing trip, one of those informal "hen-parties" that sororities have from time to time.

OUR ORGANIZATIONS

The organizations and activities on the campus are so many and so varied that there is at least one to suit every student's talents and inclinations. There are publications and forensics, Glee Clubs and athletics, religious clubs and departmental groups, and a number of student governing bodies.

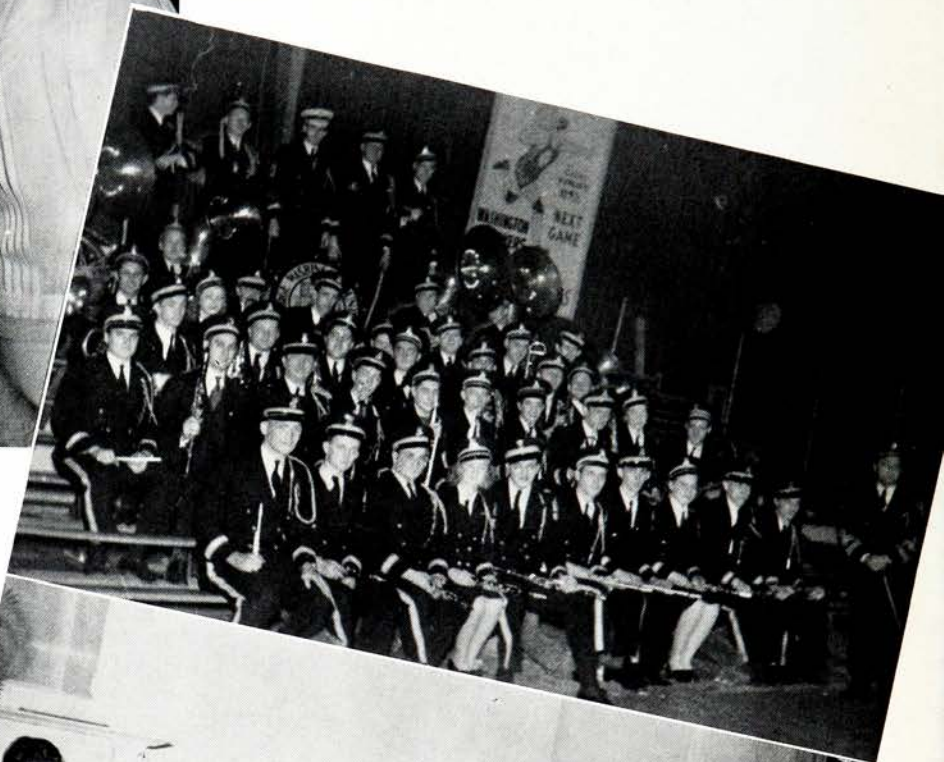

This year, the Hatchet has continued to be one of the stronger activities on the campus, publishing its weekly issues, and attracting all budding journalists to its ranks. Cue and Curtain was also busy with three major productions and a number of minor ones on its schedule. The Glee Clubs have had an outstanding year, climaxed by a joint recital with the University of Maryland Glee Club and a program with the National Symphony Orchestra.

The newly-formed Religious Council directed the activities of the religious clubs, while another young organization W. S. G. A., oriented the freshmen in the fall and put on a successful May Day in the spring. Throughout the year, the Student Council functioned smoothly in coordinating the activities of all the various organizations.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CLASS OF 1941 FROM THE ALUMNI

Dear Alumnus:

The General Alumni Association extends greetings and a warm invitation to the Class of 1941 to join in the work of the Association for the welfare of the University and the strengthening of personal ties among its graduates and former students. A continuing interest in the University should be a part of the heritage of every graduate, and the alumni organizations are the channels which give direction and expression to this interest. They are a means through which alumni and former students may join in extending and increasing the investment which their years at the University have given them.

Personal ties among graduates of the University are strengthened and renewed by means of regular alumni meetings in Washington and in various cities throughout the country, and by means of the "Alumni Review."

Very sincerely yours,

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Founded in 1894, under the leadership of Miss Mary Charlotte Priest, A.B. 1893, A.M. 1901, Columbian Women is the largest and most active women's organization in the George Washington University. The advancement of women in educational work has been for many years one of the principle objectives of the Columbian Women. A substantial scholarship fund has been built up from life membership dues and a larger number of scholarships have been granted to women students in the University. Columbian Women has always maintained close contact with the University administration and gives its full support to the promotion of all interests of the University.

The following are eligible for active membership in Columbian Women: Any woman who for one year has been a regularly registered student in the University, provided she shall have received credit for thirty semester hours of work; any woman member of the Faculties, or Board of Trustees; any woman on the Administrative Staff; the wife or recognized head of the household of any member of the Faculties, Board of Trustees, or the Administrative Staff; and any woman recipient of an honorary degree from the University. Graduate women students and wives of graduate men students are eligible for associate membership, having all privileges of membership except those of voting and holding office.

"Wisdom is the principal thing;
therefore get wisdom; and with all thy getting get understanding."
Proverbs 4:7.

Christian Science Organization at the George Washington University is one of seventy-two such organizations in universities and colleges throughout the world.

A reception is held each fall to acquaint students and faculty members with the Organization and a lecture is given during the school year by a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Meetings of the Organization are held in Columbian House at 8:10
P.M. on the first and third Thursdays of the month. Authorized books and periodicals on Christian Science, including the international daily newspaper, the Christian Science Monitor, are available in the University Li-

Cue and Curtain continued its upward trend this year through the competent production of "Margin For Error" and "Stage Door," gaining new success and new prestige on campus. But the drama organization has had other projects besides that of presenting such modern three-act plays.

The club has this year found time to devote to several other plans of work. Due to the new point membership system inaugurated last year, new applicants were presented to the members in student-directed one-act plays. Also this year, the club has continued its policy of sponsoring a one-act playwriting contest with the result that the three best plays were presented in early spring. The winners were "Some Walk Crooked," by Ray Arceneaux; "Beauty in the Moonlight," by Albert Tate, and "A Row to Hoe," by Allen Dewey.

This season the club branched into another field of the drama—radio. Several short programs using student talent for acting as well as writing went on the air during the fall with regular weekly programs planned throughout the spring months.

Enthusiastic preparations were made for the final production of the year which took place in the late spring. With such a full schedule, with such enthusiastic participants in the many different aspects of the stage, and with the soon to be completed auditorium solving many of the technical problems, Cue and Curtain seems to have finally hit her stride as an efficient, successful, independent campus organization.

WOMEN'S VARSITY DEBATE

A young and inexperienced women's debate team concluded a successful season this year. The only veteran, Elsie Carper, served as debate manager. The complete personnel consisted of Elsie Carper, Patricia Coughenour, Phyllis Dorton, Leatrice Harpster, Jessma Oslin, and Mary Jo Oslin. The first debate against Westhampton College occurred before the Petworth Women's Club at a luncheon meeting and was followed by a trip through the South to debate Roanoke College and Randolph-Macon. A second team consisting of Leatrice Harpster and Jessma Oslin journeyed to William and Mary to engage in a panel discussion. A third trip took Elsie Carper and Mary Jo Oslin to Chicago to participate in the Delta Sigma Rho Student Congress. The final contest of the year occurred at a tea in Strong Hall where the George Washington team of Patricia Coughenour and Phyllis Dorton met the University of Pittsburgh in an Oregon style debate. The subject used throughout the year was: Resolved, that the nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent union.

The great improvement in varsity athletics has been due in large part to the fine freshman prospects who spend one year becoming eligible scholastically and athletically.

Frosh football enjoyed outstanding success by winning over Dickinson Seminary, Maryland Frosh, and Quantico Marines. Only once did they suffer defeat, which came from the hands of Georgetown. The young Colonials ran up 21 first downs to the Hoya Yearlings' 4, but the Georgetown jinx again proved too much for G. W. and the efforts of the hard-driving Frosh backs went for naught. Georgetown emerged with a 7-0 victory over the Buff and Blue younger set.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Even more spectacular than frosh football was Ott Zahn's young Colonial quintet. Out of 14 games, they were victorious in 13, losing only to the highly-rated F. B. I., 46-41. Twice this fast-breaking five defeated Georgetown and Maryland by goodly margins, and scored 74 points against the Y. M. C. A. An outstanding feature of the schedule was a victory over "Selfridge Field," an Army team which flew here from Michigan in a "Flying Fortress."

VARSITY BASEBALL

With a suicide schedule including Ohio State, Harvard, Richmond, Penn State, Georgetown, and other top-ranking college teams, varsity baseball made its bid for scholastic national recognition on intercollegiate diamonds. A unique feature of the varsity nine's season was the fact that they were the only collegiate team in the country to have at their disposal a major league diamond. At this writing, Griffith Stadium is slated to be the scene of many pitching duels and of many slug-fests.

LETICS

BASKETBALL

The Colonial basketeers of 1940-41 enjoyed the most successful season in University history. The Reinhart quintet did some of the smoothest ball handling, deceptive passing, and accurate shooting ever witnessed on a local court. Their sensational play earned them national ranking and made them a power to be reckoned with on the court.

A 22-game schedule opened with an easy win over Washington and Lee, and was followed by outstanding victories over many Southern Conference foes. Davidson, Duke, South Carolina, Maryland, Virginia, V. P. I., Clemson, and Furman fell before the fast breaking offense of the Buff and Blue.

Week after week Riverside Stadium overflowed with capacity crowds that came to see the Colonials defeat the nation's best teams. Such outstanding teams as Minnesota, Kansas State, Army, and Navy were turned back, while powerful Oklahoma A. M. nosed out G. W. in an overtime period 38-33.

The St. John's game was the climax of a sensational season. St. John's, rated as the ranking team in the East, entered the fray as slight favorites. It was a crucial game for both teams, as both were fighting for a spot in the Madison Square Garden Tournament. But from the opening whistle G. W. dominated the picture and put on one of the most amazing exhibitions of basketball to win going away 59-42.

However, the Colonials' blaze of glory was short-lived—two days later, before a record-breaking crowd the Buff and Blue, while suffering from an inevitable letdown, suffered defeat before their cross-town jinx, Georgetown. Thus went G. W.'s hopes for a tournament bid and so ended the season with a record of 18 wins and 4 losses.

At least two afternoons a week, every underclass coed leaves the Student Club for Building G, where she climbs into a skirted gym suit of two-tone green. And if a gym major, she has rushed from an Orchesis rehearsal to a "hockey chocolate" in the Sigma Kappa rooms; she has played basketball with Maryland coeds at four and crossed foils with her classmate at seven.

One rainy Saturday in November, hockey, soccer, and tennis players threw their suits into suitcases and boarded the bus for Frederick, Maryland. In the annual sports meet with Hood College, the Colonial soccer team kicked their way to three victories over their Maryland opponents. Home again, the senior-sophomore combination emerged victorious and muddy from the "odd-even" fray, hockey's annual classic.

Come Valentine's week-end and targets, birdies, and basketball were packed on to the Goucher-bound bus. While forward Peggy Kinsman and guard Florida Franklin danced at U. of Va. formals, the Colonial frosh, sophomore, and juniors lost to the Maryland girls' teams. Riding home Saturday night, tired coeds drowned their sorrows singing "The Old Silver Goblet." The senior basketball team had won the only G. W. victory of the week-end.

Back in the Tin Tabernacle, tennis manager Roselyn Pope lost to Becky Yobst in the badminton singles. Before the feathers had cleared away, the juniors clinched the class championships in basketball by a 43-7 victory over their senior opponents. In the same tournament, the sophomores took a 27-22 beating from the freshmen.

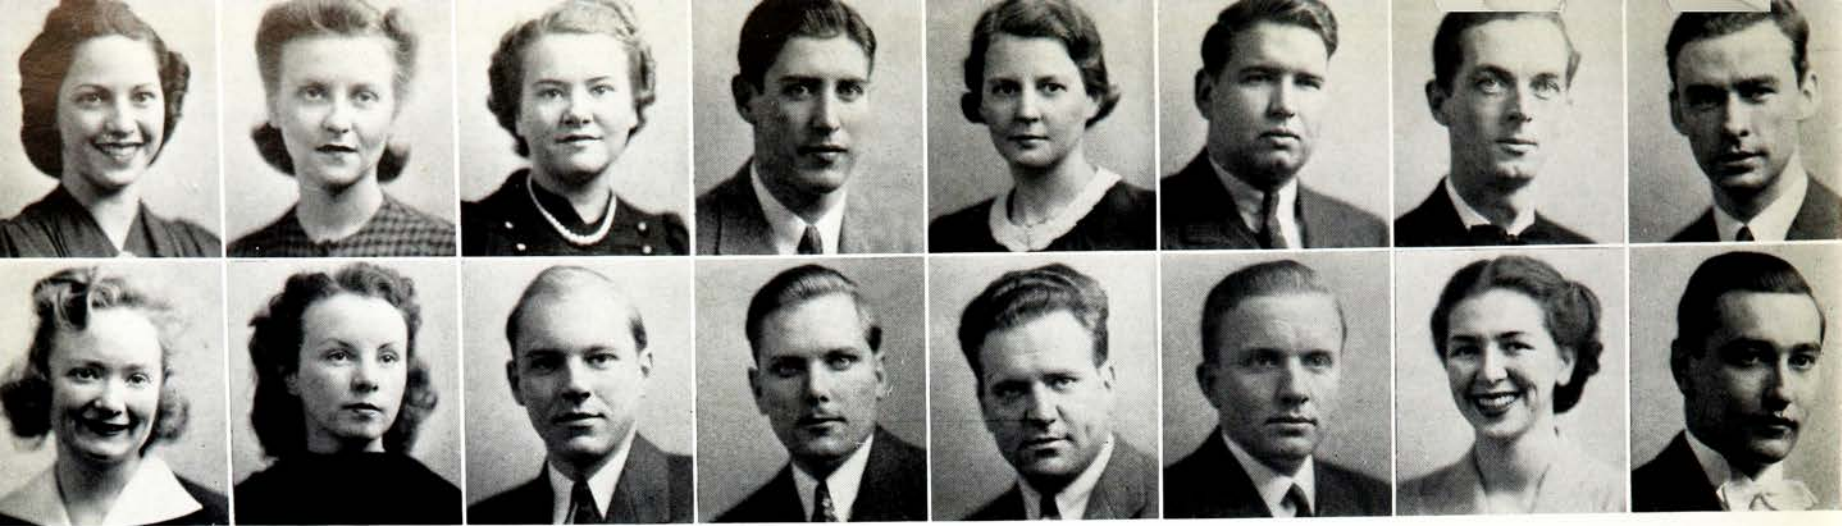

Between seasons, star players shed their shin guards and fencing masks long enough to collect their trophies at the WAA formal banquet. Between courses, WAA president Sue Burnett handed the tennis cup to singles' champ Camille Craig, the golf cup to Jo Merleman, winner of the fall ringer tournament, and fencing cup to Marion Pauls.

Not two-tone green suits, but their gob hats and bare knees brought en-cores for feminine ice-breakers in the Third Ice Carnival of the Washington Figure Skating Club. Trained by the Riverside rink professionals, members of the figure skating classes formed a sailorette chorus in the March show.

Social upheaval of the year: In snappy buff and blue uniforms, six G. W. coeds broke into the ranks of Colonial cheerleading. The season of 1940-41 will be long remembered as the season when Mina Brown, Cherrie Frost, Mary Garrett, Mary Henshall, Miriam Jagers, and Betsey Moses gave the first female rabble rousing at a Buff and Blue cage contest.

THE SCHOOL

NAME: "The Class of '41,"

ADDRESS: 1335 H. Street, N. W.

AGE: Four Years.

OCCUPATION: Students of medicine.

CHIEF COMPLAINT: Four long years.

PRESENT ILLNESS: Onset very definite as symptoms became manifested on September 21, 1937. This followed a three to four-year period of diligent preparation at sundry colleges throughout the country. The symptoms were those of fatigue, unwonted irritability, fine tremors, bouts of rapid heart action, insomnia, and tenesmus. These symptoms were aggravated and abetted by Doctors Jenkins, Pate, Barris, Parr, Albritton, and Dr. Vigneaud. The latter's alarm clock never failed to provoke irritability. Doctor "Birdie" Hanks, "one under Parr," through stimulants, enabled patient to complete course in Bacteriology.

For the three month period following June, '38, there was complete absence of all symptoms, save for the heartfelt loss of Doctor Earl B. McKinley, our beloved Dean. With the resumption of classes in September, the dreaded syndrome again returned, the exciting factors now being Doctors Roe, Roth, Choisser, Conklin and Vedder. Doctor Roe's classical demonstration, on the students, of the simple manner in which the gag reflex is brought under control when one is swallowing those innocent lead-headed rubber stomach tubes is worthy of mention. Doctor Choisser's excellent course in Pathology was indeed stimulating. "Riva Rocci" Wilbur's violent over-reaction to third degree queries by Doctor Conklin will always be remembered. Mac Sams was elected president of the class and we attempted to transfer our symptoms by suggestion, with such success that Sams was forced to seek shelter his last two years at Jefferson Medical School. In June of '39, the symptoms were accentuated and climaxed, for some, by the National Board Examinations.

Again complete relief was experienced during the summer months only to reappear when the patient reported to Doctor Bloedorn in September for the clinical assignments. Since "swing" had definitely found its place in the social order, the school in accord started off with a two-week "jam session" and there was a very prompt return of all complaints with the addition of various muscular aches and pains, most marked in the upper extremities and the gluteii. Gallinger, Emergency, white-walled wards, bed-ridden patients, and a chance to startle this new-found medical world, soon made the patient forget his complaints. Doctor Dickens' demonstration of the loss of vibratory sense in Pernicious Anemia with that gargantuan tuning fork was one of the year's high lights. The Infectious Disease group remained symptom free for the duration of their service, and some found relief in earning the "G" in touch football and baseball.

Remission of all symptoms was experienced for the third consecutive summer by the majority. The Carlisle Rest Cure was taken with some success by those of a military mind and it may be mentioned that Company "A," with its Beaver Patrol and Royal Fusilliers, distinguished itself during the Mt. Holly Campaign of '40. For some of our confreres, symptoms of an allergic nature developed over the summer. They were found to have developed a marked sensitivity to Doctors Parks, Ramsey and the OB Service.

In September, '40, the resumption of classes failed to produce the marked degree of relapse that had been so characteristic in the past and the complaints now became vague and indefinite. There were, however, weekly attacks of vertigo, low-grade icterus, adiado-kinesis, dysmetria, hypertonus, hypoplasia, positive Babinski and fine intention tremors that were precipitated by Doctors Freeman and Donnally. The clinical work at Children's, George Washington, St. Elizabeth's and Emergency had an invaluable tonic effect. I, Ray Howard, Class President for three years, served to alleviate many of the minor symptoms.

IMPRESSION: Four "not so long years" of hard work, pleasant memories of fellow classmates, and cooperating professors, and skillful guidance by Doctor Earl B. McKinley and Doctor Walter A. Bloedorn experienced by the Class of '41.

PROGNOSIS: Complete cessation of all clinical signs and symptoms with Commencement.

TREATMENT: Receipt of the Degree of Doctor of Medicine.

★ CAMPUS

Below: Tuesday morning's "Hatchet" makes its appearance in the Student Club . . . counter-loungers and bridge fiends . . . Anne of Quigley's makes a sale to a couple of K. A.'s.

Opposite: One of those encounters over a coke in the "Stooge Club" . . . an encounter with the books in front of the bulletin board . . . end of the line at the Food Shoppe . . . and the door to the underground cafeteria.

As much a part of the University as the class rooms are the campus hang-outs beloved by the student body. Many a mentally harassed student has found a momentary refuge from school routine in a snack at the Food Shoppe, a coke at Quigley's, a bridge game in the Student Club, or a short one at Bassin's. In all of these rendezvous, there is a spirit of college comradeship based on laughter and fun, intellectualism and the arts, or a fraternity or sorority pin, and a serious conversation is as unlikely as a fourth for bridge with a deck of cards. The noise of dishes' clatter and students' chatter, the soft snap of cards

HANGOUTS

Opposite: Bridge game . . . the well-known grapevine starts in the Student Club . . . Sue McNeese . . . More gab sessions . . . and more hanger-outers.

Above: "In front of Quig's," the perennial meeting-place . . . crowded tables in the Food Shoppe . . . Kaye Wheeler concentrates . . . and more bridge . . . and Quigley's counter.

on scarred table tops, the popular tunes being bel-lowed by the nickleodeons, these are the sounds that weave themselves into a familiar pattern. A line of students chattering as they wait for their dinners at the Food Shoppe, the K A's huddled around a table at Quig's and Mary or Anne telling you that you haven't won the dollar in trade this week, Mr. B's booths offering some scholar a momentary respite from school books, a worried bridge fiend hunched over a handful of cards in the Students' Club . . .
these are the sights that blend into a college kaleidoscope.

On the opposite page and above are pictures of the typical Strong Hall resident. The girl is Betty Munson, a freshman who lives in Room 211. We see Betty braving the registration line, spending a typical dormitory day (including a session in the library), and finally going out and coming in from a gala evening at the All-University Prom.

PRINTING COMPANY ★ NASHVILLE

of College Annuals

We have tried to make this book different from every "Cherry Tree" that has ever gone before, but here on the last page we would like to plagiarize our predecessors long enough to express our thanks to a number of people for a number of things. We nominate, then, for our own private Hall of Fame the following:

Mr. Emmett Deady, of the Standard Engraving Company, for inspiring us with a new idea, and Mr. Frank Huseman for helping us carry it out.

The Benson Printing Company and their representatives, Mr. W. A. Daniel and Miss Muriel Chamberlain, who helped us put our ideas in concrete form.

The Casson Studio for its cooperation with the photographic work, and all of our student photographers.

The University Comptroller, Mr. Henry W. Herzog, and Mr. John McLaughlin, of the Publications Office, for moral support and contact work.

The Interfraternity Council for providing enough obstacles to make us determined to "show them." And the Student Council and "Hatchet" for doing their part to straighten out the difficulties.

Finally, the members of our respective staffs who worked so faithfully—and even those who didn't but at least said they wanted to help.

THE BOARD OF EDITORS.
